

GERMANS URGING TAX OF $100 EACH ON U. S. TOURISTS

Advocates of Plan Estimate
This Would Yield 10,000,-
000,000 Marks for Pensions.

BERLIN, March 31 (Associated Press).—The prospective invasion of the army of American tourists, variously estimated at from 100,000 to 300,000, already is stimulating German enterprise in the direction of conceiving devices calculated to yield the greatest possible number of dollars for the Fatherland for private consumption.

Sentiment in this direction already is sharply divided, one current favoring the open door policy, while the more ambitious believe the visiting Americans should be made to contribute generously to the Nation's depleted exchequer. The former argue that the influx of Americans will prove a beneficial stimulus to trade and the resumption of German-American relations, while the more hostile element regard the dollar endowed visitors as parasites whose mere ambition is to have a gas time for a month or two at small expense.

The Pan-German Deutsche Zeitung, to-day gives prominence, under the caption "Gentlemen, Pay Up," to a plan proposed by an ardent German patriot who sees some easy money in sight. The device proposed consists of assessing every American tourist $100 the moment he sets foot on German soil. Estimating the number headed for Germany at 300,000, this would yield, on the basis of the current rate of exchange, 10,000,000,000 marks, which, it is proposed, could be diverted to the Government's Old Age Pension Fund, which is said to be in dire need of financial rehabilitation.

The inventor of this plan, in urging it upon the Government, says "Americans who desire to come to Germany, and who perhaps furnished arms and munitions against us during the war, should be made to pay up on certain at home. President Harding undoubtedly could not object to such a plan for correcting our finances, and in this our old-age pensioners would become deserving beneficiaries. Something must be done to save Germany from dollaritis, otherwise we are doomed to the same fate as Austria. Our economic body is anemic, and cannot stand any more leeches."

"Let there be a display of dignity in Germany when this swarm of American locusts arrives. Let us make them feel what we think of their exploitation of our economic misery. Let us protect ourselves against this dollar obsession."

TOURISTS BOYCOTT FRANCE.

So say Hotel Men. Meeting to Attract More Travellers.

Copyright, 1922 (New York Evening World). By Press Publishing Co.
PARIS, March 31.—France is being boycotted by the American tourist. So concluded hotel and restaurant proprietors from all parts of the French Republic, who gathered here to-day to adopt measures to counteract what they describe as the "anti-French propaganda" of American hotel keepers who aim to keep tourists in the United States.

Austrian and German hotel men were accused of fomenting prejudice against France as a country for travel in order to divert visitors from the United States into their countries. British tourists, it is also lamented, have been influenced to avoid France.

The French hotel men concluded they should bring about a reduction in the tremendous tax at present levied upon foreigners arriving in France. French newspapers have been advocating this to save many hotels from failing.

"Haw, Haw," He Says, Looking at His Knees and Drawing Blanket About Him.

They were crowded in the ladies' cabin of the ferryboat Goshen, bound from Jersey City to the Isle of Manhattan. It was after 8 o'clock this morning as the boat ploughed through the waves in midstream in the rain-enshrouded Hudson. Flappers were in the majority in the cabin, their noses white, their cheeks blooming like roses, pink and rainbows.

Into the cabin there moved majestically a big Indian, all made up for an early date. A blanket hung from his shoulders and reached to his knees, while his feet were encased in moccasins. A lone feather was stuck in his hair and his cheeks were smeared with bright vermilion. He made his majestic way through the flappers who stood knee deep. He looked at their war paint and grinned. Then his gaze fell to the hem of their skirts and he looked at his own knees and he drew his blanket about him.

"Haw, haw!" he laughed into the eyes of a flapper.

"Hee, hee," she trickled back, and passed the "Buck."

The cautions of the flood of flappers rocked the cabin, while the shoulders of the Big Brave shook with merriment as he followed the sign: "This Way Out."

And they say that Indians have no sense of humor.

ATLANTIC FLYERS PREPARE TO GO ON

Second Leg of Trip Will Take Them to the Cape Verde Islands.

LISBON, March 31.—Word from Las Palmas, in the Canary Isles, early to-day said the Portuguese aviators who completed the first 1,000 miles of their transatlantic flight to Brazil, were preparing for the second leg of their long journey.

They will fly to the Cape Verde Islands from the Canaries. Capt. Coutinho, who piloted the Fairey hydro aeroplane which successfully reached Las Palmas, has been quoted as saying the odds are long against their completing the trip. Capt. Sacadura, the other aviator, is more optimistic.

SAY 2 RAILROADS WASTED $6,000,000

N. Y. Central and Pennsy. Censured by Commission for Locomotive Repair Contracts.

WASHINGTON, March 31.—Contracts with outside locomotive construction companies during 1920 for the repair of engines cost the New York Central and Pennsylvania Railroads each approximately $3,000,000 more than the same work would have cost in their own shops, the Interstate Commerce Commission investigation found to-day.

The Atlantic Coast Line, however, which also contracted with outside locomotive construction shops during 1920, was justified in so doing, the commission held, even though it also censured excessive costs. Vice members of the commission dissented from findings of the majority, censuring the Pennsylvania and New York Central.
